Masterchef

Joseph Varetto began his culinary journey as a chef apprentice in Melbourne but it was in Italy, with legendary Gualtiero Marchesi at his three-Michelin-starred Laberata restaurant where he learned his craft. He returned to Melbourne to head The Venetian's Kitchens for two years before moving to Number 8 restaurant and wine bar in December 2002 where he was soon promoted to executive sous chef of Crown restaurants, responsible for the kitchen team of 15 outlets. Chef Varetto has won many awards including Australia's Best Risotto Cook 2000 and in 2001, he was the Australian candidate for the prestigious Bocuse d'Or competition in Lyon, France.
